Description

Here is a brief description of the organisation's needs for communication services. More detailed requirements will be provided to those invited to submit tenders following the selection of expressions of interest. The organisation is relatively small with limited internal resources, necessitating consultancy support to achieve its communication objectives. The goal is to align communication efforts with the organisation's long-term goals and vision while maintaining transparency, clarity, and accessibility. These principles ensure external accountability, internal efficiency, and trust in the organisation's role as a professional and reliable actor. The required services are divided into two main areas: - Operational Communication Advisory Support may include producing reports (e.g., annual and interim), managing crisis communication, preparing press materials, translating texts, and providing photography or video production services. - Strategic Communication Advisory Services focus on identifying and addressing improvement areas in external communication, such as enhancing the website or other channels, with an emphasis on strategic advice and development.
